Tre Jewish Disabilities bill was thrown out on second reading in the Lords.

Mesers. Hale, the estensible proprietors of the rocket factory at Rotherhithe, London, were tried at the Bow street police fourt, for having on their premises more than fifty pounds of gunpowder, and were fixed about £6 and costs. They were afterwards put on trial for illegally manufac-turing war rockets, with a view of connecting Kossuth with the affair—the evidence against Kossuth being mainly supported on the testimony of one Usener, a Hungarian, formerly in Maid tone jail for theft, and ecently discharged from a factory. The case is to go before a jury. In the meantime Messrs. Hale refused to be bailed, and are confined in Horsemonger lane jail. We notice that the Kreet Zeitung states that the Prussian police recently sent to London full proof that Kosenth anted the house through Hale, that ammunition was making to Kosenth's order, and that three hundred greandes were sent to the order of Kossuth's agent at Rostock, which port was the emporium of the revolutionary materials.
